Audition Notice for Caught in the Net

Read through – January 18, 7:00 p.m.
Open Auditions – January 19 & 20, 7:00 – 9:30 p.m.

Caught in the Net is a fun, full blown, six-door, English farce by Britain's king of farce, Ray Cooney. It is a very modern play set in south London and is the sequel to Cooney's highly successful and long-running farce Run for your Wife, which the Dartmouth Players mounted in 1989. It is now much later and the artful bigamist taxi driver, John Smith, has successfully continued his secret dual relationship with both his wife Mary, in Wimbledon and his wife Barbara, in Streatham and both wives have produced a child, Vicki and Gavin, who are now teenagers. Vicki and Gavin "meet" in an internet chat room and discover that their fathers have a lot in common and they want to really meet each other with the objective of dating and discussing their fathers, much to the consternation of John Smith; and so the farce begins!

There are seven in the cast as follows: Gavin Smith (m) 16ish, Vicki Smith (f) 15ish, Barbara Smith (f) 40ish, Mary Smith (f) 40ish, John Smith (m) 40ish, Stanley Gardener (m) 40ish and Stanley's "Dad" (m) 80ish. All are major roles with "Dad's" being the smallest as he appears only in the second act.

A general reading of the play will take place on Tuesday, January 18 commencing at 7:00 p.m. upstairs at the theatre. If you are not familiar with the play, it's a good idea to attend the read through to let you know what you are getting into. Open individual auditions for actors will be held on Wednesday, January 19 and Thursday, January 20 evenings between 7:00 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. upstairs at the theatre. The director much prefers prepared audition pieces but he will have written audition pieces you may read if you prefer. Caught in the Net will run for 13 performances commencing on March 30, and finishing on April 16, 2005. Rehearsals (3 per week) will commence during the week of January 24. Those of you who wish to work backstage for this production please stop by on any of the above three evenings and let us know your interests. For further information, contact director Cliff Tyner at 434-1078.

Opening night for Night Watch by Lucille Fletcher is fast approaching and as always we wonder where the heck the time went. I was honored to be asked to direct the play and having been on stage a couple of times with Dartmouth Players I knew I would enjoy the experience. When I was given the play to read I just couldn't put it down until I knew the outcome.

The play takes place in Mid Manhattan in an elegant townhouse belonging to the wealthy Wheeler's where often rich and poor live in close proximity separated only by a wall of glass. From the moment a dead body appears in the window of a tenement building, behind the townhouse the play takes us on a roller coaster ride of suspense until the chilling climax delivers a vicious twisting ending to the plot.

It has been an enjoyable experience directing this intense emotional thriller. I have a great production team behind me ably led by producer Pauline Laurence who has done a wonderful job. The cast has worked very hard and have been most patient and accepting of my rantings and ravings every rehearsal. We have a variety of known and new faces to the Dartmouth Players who have taken this opportunity to bring great characters to the stage.

Robin Saywood, Director

Night Watch runs January 19 to February 5, Wednesdays to Saturdays, 8:00 p.m., and one matinee at 2:00 p.m. on Sunday, January 30 at the Dartmouth Players Theatre, 33 Crichton Avenue. November 10 and 11 are "Five Buck Nights". Tickets are $12 for adults and $10 for McLean's raffle for the Building Fund which raised $442 for the Players. The winner of the pendant was Arthur Manley.

In Memoriam – Herb Chapman, 1939-2004

The local theatre community lost a valued member on November 9, 2004, with the sudden passing of Herb Chapman. Dartmouth audiences will remember Herb as the zany evangelist-con man in Saving Grace; Bedford playgoers will happily recall his off-center psychiatrist in Rumors. He toured as "Oberon" in A Midsummer Night's Dream with Neptune Theatre School, was very active in Playback Theatre, and contributed energetically in many ways behind the scenes.

Wherever and in whatever capacity Herb worked, his cheer and respect for his fellow humans made every rehearsal and every performance brighter, warmer, and more fun. Herb will be sadly missed but fondly remembered.

Improv Fun with The Improv Club

What is the IMPROV CLUB?

It's a new concept in improv classes and fun.
It's based around having a regular place available for people to improvise, learn, and practice their craft.

Unlike conventional classes, Club membership has its privileges including:

- Discounts on other class offerings
- Discounts on some improv shows
- An Improv journal/glossary/info-pack to chart your growth
- Opportunities for other improv projects

Membership in the club is $100 and lasts 20 weeks (which works out to only five bucks a night) on Mondays beginning January 17 at the Dartmouth Players Theatre. Each night begins with a warm-up, some instruction and exercises to work on improv skills, and lots of improv games. There is a real focus on doing. Also, we try to have the training modular in nature, so each night is more or less self contained, to make things more appealing for those just wishing to drop by for an evening.

For those not wishing to commit, people are free to drop by on a Monday night and join in the fun for only $10 an evening, (but miss out on the other perks).

For more information, please check out our website at <http://www.improvateers.com> under 'classes' or contact Eric Davis at 448-7529. For a bio on the instructor, please see: <http://www.improvateers.com/classes/instructors.html>
More workshops are coming. Watch for their future announcements in the DP newsletters, on the DP website and at the improve website listed above.

Three locations to pre-purchase

Postscript -

Nurse Jane Goes to Hawaii

The task of a producer for a play at Dartmouth Players is to organize a crew to do all of the jobs that you see on the crew list in the program. This allows the director to concentrate fully on the play and not to worry about the small stuff. Well! Let me tell you that if you ever have aspirations to be a producer, Dartmouth Players is the place to begin. We are loaded with talent and our members are very capable of getting our stage ready for you, the audience.

Nurse Jane Goes to Hawaii was a very successful play. I wish to thank you, the audience, for your attendance.
Nothing helps the actors as much as full seats in the theatre. The cast and crew were impressed with their super-organized director, Bryn Rowlands. As always, the set construction by Brent Boudreau, Gordon McLean and Cliff Tyner was much appreciated. For your information, during each performance there were 126 exits and entrances through the doors and down the hallway, and you know that sometimes those doors were slammed really hard. Seven pieces of ceramics were broken every night of the run, and were also required for rehearsals. These were made and painted by Sandi Montgomery and her crew, Faye McLean, Suzanne Harmer and Amy McInnis. Faye also did the set painting, assisted by Holly Irving, Val Tyner, Sohail Ansari and Stuart Smith, and what a wonderful job they did. We appreciate Don Lawrence who organized our sound effects and music. Michael Roche made his debut at Dartmouth Players as our stage manager, and was a hit with all of us.

Of course, we do not have an audience without you knowing about it, which is why we offer thanks to our publicity people, Joyce Dagnall for the newsletter, Frances Taggart for advertising on the radio, TV and newspapers and Ruth Flemming for putting together our program.

Special thanks go to our lighting crew. Kevin Smees was very patient in not only designing our lights, but also taking the time to explain what he was doing, and why, to those who volunteered to come out and hang the lights. I am sure that they gained an appreciation of lighting effects that day.
I would also like to express my appreciation and give extra special thanks to our lighting and sound operators, Michael Robson and Andrew Coll, who shared the task of running the booth for the entire run of the play and for many rehearsals. Also, a big thank-you to Michael's and Andrew's parents for allowing them to take on the extra performance days when required.

Finally, we must recognize our front of house people, Rose Pearle for selling tickets every night, and Val Tyner for providing us with volunteers to make coffee and sweets for intermission. I know you, the audience, enjoyed the show, and we look forward to seeing you back again for our next performances.

Angus Duncan, Producer

Editor's Note: Total audience attendance for Nurse Jane Goes to Hawaii was 1411.
